

Web-based training is back!

And it's better than ever.

There's no need to mark your calendar for the online video tutorials now offered at no cost through a license agreement between Penn State Information Technology Services and leading technology training provider lynda.com, Inc. These tutorials are taught by industry experts, broken down into short segments to accommodate busy schedules, and available online any time your schedule allows.

Visit the Web site to learn more about how you can take advantage of hundreds of video tutorials at no cost. (And just in case you want to sign up for a face-to-face session, we'll throw in the calendar anyway.)
