

Free online tutorials can help with projects and course work

Don't forget about the many technology tutorials you can use to help with final projects and course work this semester. Thousands of high-quality video tutorials on hundreds of information technology topics are free to Penn State students through a license agreement with lynda.com, Inc., an industry leader in online training. These tutorials are available 24/7 and broken down into manageable segments that will accommodate schedules during this busy time of year. Topics include Microsoft Office applications, Photoshop, Dreamweaver, Flash, SQL, Drupal, audio and video editing applications, ColdFusion, operating systems, and hundreds more. To learn more and to access the tutorials at no cost, go to <http://its.psu.edu/training/lynda/>.
