

Fall

Technology workshops open to Penn State students, faculty, and staff

Registration is now open for technology workshops offered throughout fall on topics including Access, Excel, Dreamweaver, ANGEL, InDesign, Photoshop, Blogs at Penn State, a variety of Penn State's administrative computing topics and more. Many sessions are also offered online through Meeting@PennState (powered by Adobe Connect) meeting and training software. For more information and to register for training visit <http://its.psu.edu/training/>. Those who would like to receive monthly e-mails highlighting additional learning opportunities may sign up by sending a blank e-mail to l-training-news-subscribe-request@lists.psu.edu.

Spring

Technology workshops open to Penn State students, faculty, and staff

Registration is now open for technology workshops offered throughout spring on topics including Access, Excel, Dreamweaver, ANGEL, InDesign, Photoshop, Blogs at Penn State, a variety of Penn State's administrative computing topics and more. Many sessions are also offered online through Meeting@PennState (powered by Adobe Connect) meeting and training software. For more information and to register for training visit <http://its.psu.edu/training/>. Those who would like to receive monthly e-mails highlighting additional learning opportunities may sign up by sending a blank e-mail to l-training-news-subscribe-request@lists.psu.edu.

Winter-Fest

Faculty and Instructors to Explore Technologies for Teaching During Winter-Fest

Penn State faculty, instructors, and graduate students are invited to participate in Winter-Fest, a week of free workshops, seminars, and presentations spotlighting technology as it relates to pedagogy and research. Sessions are scheduled to take place May [insert dates] and will highlight the ways instructors at Penn State are using technology to enhance classes and put innovative teaching ideas into practice. Some sessions will be offered live through Meeting@PennState (powered by Adobe Connect) in order to give more members of the Penn State community the opportunity to attend via the web.

Visit the ITS Training Services catalog at <http://its.psu.edu/training/catalog> and click "Winter-Fest" in the black bar at the top of the page to view all available sessions. Those who would like to receive monthly e-mails highlighting additional learning opportunities for faculty and instructors may sign up by sending a blank e-mail to l-faculty-techtraining-subscribe-request@lists.psu.edu.

Summer-Fest

Faculty and Instructors to Explore Technologies for Teaching During Summer-Fest

Faculty, instructors, and graduate students are invited to sign up for free workshops during two Summer-Fest sessions developed to target technology as it relates to pedagogy and research. Sessions are scheduled to take place during the week between spring and summer semesters [insert dates], as well as the week before the start of fall semester [insert dates],

The workshops will highlight the ways instructors at Penn State are using technology to enhance classes and put innovative teaching ideas into practice. Many of these sessions will be offered live through Meeting@PennState (powered by Adobe Connect) in order to give more members of the Penn State community the opportunity to attend via the web.

Visit the ITS Training Services catalog at <http://its.psu.edu/training/catalog> and click "Summer-Fest" in the black bar at the top of the page to view all available sessions. Those who would like to receive monthly e-mails highlighting additional learning opportunities for faculty and instructors may sign up by sending a blank e-mail to l-faculty-techtraining-subscribe-request@lists.psu.edu.

Summer

Technology workshops open to Penn State students, faculty, and staff

Registration is now open for technology workshops offered throughout summer on topics including Access, Excel, Dreamweaver, ANGEL, InDesign, Photoshop, Blogs at Penn State, a variety of Penn State's administrative computing topics and more. Many sessions are also offered online through Meeting@PennState (powered by Adobe Connect) meeting and training software. For more information and to register for training visit <http://its.psu.edu/training/>. Those who would like to receive monthly e-mails highlighting additional learning opportunities may sign up by sending a blank e-mail to l-training-news-subscribe-request@lists.psu.edu.

Summer-Fest II

Faculty and Instructors to Explore Technologies for Teaching During Summer-Fest

Penn State faculty, instructors, and graduate students are invited to participate in Summer-Fest, a week of free workshops, seminars, and presentations spotlighting technology as it relates to pedagogy and research. Sessions are scheduled to take place [insert dates], and will highlight the ways instructors at Penn State are using technology to enhance classes and put innovative teaching ideas into practice. Some sessions will be offered live through Meeting@PennState (powered by Adobe Connect) in order to give more members of the Penn State community the opportunity to attend via the web.

Visit the ITS Training Services catalog at <http://its.psu.edu/training/catalog> and click “Summer-Fest” in the black bar at the top of the page to view all available sessions. Those who would like to receive monthly e-mails highlighting additional learning opportunities for faculty and instructors may sign up by sending a blank e-mail to l-faculty-techtraining-subscribe-request@lists.psu.edu.